Viterrra's 2011 Community Fund opening soon

Viterrra is pleased to announce this year's Community Fund will open for applications from Tuesday 15 March.

The Viterrra Community Fund, which is designed to help rural and regional communities by providing grants for education and training, health, youth development, and community amenity projects, will this year have a special focus on assisting flood-affected communities in eastern Australia.

Viterrra's President South East Asia, Rob Gordon said the mission of the Community Fund is to support initiatives which have a positive impact in strengthening rural and regional communities.

"Rural and regional communities are a significant part of the agricultural landscape in Australia," he said.

In addition to the company's national Community Fund allocation, Viterrra has injected an additional $75,000 for flood recovery projects to assist regional and rural communities in flood-affected areas across Queensland, Victoria and New South Wales.

"We understand that the recovery process across areas of eastern Australia will be a long one. Through our Community Fund for Flood Recovery we will be able to provide grants for projects in flood-affected communities," Mr Gordon said.

Since 2006, the Community Fund has provided more than $500,000 to projects in rural and regional communities throughout Australia. This year will be the fifth round of allocations.

An advisory committee, made up of representatives from the agricultural industry, meets to award funding. This year, allocation meetings will be held in South Australia, Victoria and Queensland.

There are no dollar limits on projects, but to ensure a wide geographical spread, assistance in the range of $1000 to $5000 is more likely to attract support.

Grant applications are assessed on the quality of the community benefit they will deliver and community support for the project. Applicants should be able to demonstrate initiative and energy in raising funds locally.

Further details about the Viterrra's Community Fund, including selection criteria and the application form, will be available at www.viterrra.com.au from Tuesday, 15 March. Applications will close at 5pm on Monday 16 May.
