Viterra adds agronomist to South Australian team

Viterra has strengthened its rural workforce with the appointment of Peter Baker as agronomist for the central South Australian region. Based in Clare, Peter will cover an area which includes the Yorke Peninsula, and the lower, mid and upper north.

Working closely with Viterra's Senior Agronomist, Dr Grant Roberts, Peter's responsibilities as agronomist will include working one-on-one with growers, tailoring individual agronomic solutions to suit their requirements.

Peter will also provide field support to Viterra's team of customer relationship managers throughout the region.

Peter brings extensive experience in agronomy and research and development for broad acre cropping. He has a strong background in agriculture, agronomics and operations.

Viterra's strength is built on local investments and having employees work directly with growers to offer products and services specifically tailored to individual needs.
