Viterra opens new retail depot at Swan Hill

Viterra has opened a new retail depot in Swan Hill which will serve as a regional hub for grain marketing, agronomy, crop protection, fertiliser and seed.

Regional Sales Manager for Victoria, Steve Schumacher, said local employees offering leading grain marketing and agronomic expertise operating from the depot highlighted the company's commitment to working directly with growers.

"Julian Fry is the Customer Relationship Manager for Swan Hill and surrounding regions," he said.

"Julian has a wealth of experience and knowledge which will be invaluable for local growers. He works with growers providing them with domestic and international market information, as well as business solutions for their cropping enterprise.

"The investment in the new retail depot demonstrates Viterra's commitment to the region. Our ability to provide a complete service offering, with on-farm delivery of seed and crop protection products, is an important benefit to growers who farm in this area."

Viterra's strength is built on local investments and having employees work directly with growers. Viterra continues to strive to become growers' partner of choice, through offering products and services specifically tailored to individual needs.

Viterra is expanding its business in Victoria having recently opened agri-product retail depots in Ballarat and Horsham. The company is also building a 200,000 tonne grain receival facility at Doon adjacent to its existing processing and packing facility. These local investments build on Viterra's existing presence in Victoria including grain receival, packing and processing sites, as well as a malting plant, wool store and fertiliser distribution site.
